

It's Christmas at Slate Valley Center

Singer and guitarist Laura Collins returned to Slate Valley Center on Wednesday, Dec. 15, to entertain residents and staff with gorgeous renditions of "Rockin' Around the Christmas Tree," "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," "Silent Night," "Santa Claus Is Comin' to Town" and many more.

SVC residents enjoy listening to Laura Collins.

Before her show, residents created tree ornaments of snowmen, angels, snowflakes and cute penguins with Santa hats. 81-year-old resident Florence "Ann" Coltey created a fun stuffed stocking and Rudolph ornaments.

"This time of year is so special," said recreation director Andrea Kelley. "It really doesn't matter how old or young you are, it's Christmas and there is no place for Grinches here."

Holiday creativity at Slate Valley Center

On the morning of Friday, Dec. 10, nearly 25 residents at Slate Valley Center on State Route 40 in Granville got together and created their own Christmas stockings. What better way to enjoy the holiday season than by creating decorations, and for facility residents, improving eye and hand coordination helps improve quality of life.

"So many of our residents are incredibly talented," said recreation director Andrea Kelley. "Residents create flowers in the spring, Halloween decorations in October and turkeys leading up to Thanksgiving. With the holidays being such a happy time, our residents love drawing wrapped Christmas presents, Santas, Christmas trees and snowmen."
